

CONGRESSMAN JEB HENSARLING'S GUIDE TO VISITING WASHINGTON D.C.

As your Representative in Congress, I am pleased to provide you with this compressive guide to Washington D.C. It includes information about many attractions around the city to help you plan your visit. There are several tours my office can help arrange for you, but available space on many tours is limited, particularly during the summer months. Make sure to plan in advance and contact my office as soon as possible if we can assist you in any way. I hope that you have an enjoyable and enriching experience in Washington, D.C.

Yours respectfully,

About the Congressman

Congressman Jeb Hensarling is a life-long conservative dedicated to advancing the principles of faith, family, free enterprise and freedom. Jeb's combination of principled conservatism and practical political experience culminated in his being elected Chairman of the Republican Study Committee, the largest conservative caucus in the House of Representatives.

An outspoken advocate for limited government and unlimited freedom, Congressman Hensarling has led efforts to control spending, lower taxes, defend traditional family values, enhance our homeland security and support our troops. Throughout the 109th Congress, Jeb served as Chairman of the RSC Budget and Spending Taskforce, where he introduced a bill that would balance the budget in five years without raising taxes on American families and individuals.

Serving on the House Committee on the Budget and the House Committee on Financial Services, Jeb has led the charge in Congress for balancing the budget and restraining the growth of government spending. He has emerged as a national voice for conservative values and principles.

Jeb introduced the "Family Budget Protection Act," a landmark budget reform bill that was heralded as the "Gold Standard" of budget enforcement legislation by a coalition of conservative groups, including the American Conservative Union, Americans for Tax Reform, Citizens Against Government Waste, Citizens for a Sound Economy and the National Taxpayers Union. Jeb's reform bill would restore accountability to the federal budget process, increasing efficiency and rooting out waste on behalf of all 5th district families, small business owners, and residents.

Jeb understands that you are tired of the waste in government, and is the watchdog in Congress for your tax dollars. He spearheaded efforts on the House Financial Services Committee to pass regulatory relief for financial institutions that will benefit American consumers. He has received numerous honors and awards for his outstanding service in Congress. In addition, according to the National Taxpayers Union, Jeb currently has the least expensive spending agenda in the entire Congress.

Jeb Hensarling was born in Stephenville, Texas, and grew up working on his father's farm near College Station. Jeb was an active student leader at Texas A&M University, where he earned his Bachelor's degree in economics in 1979. Later he went on to earn a law degree from the University of Texas in 1982. He went on to serve on the staff of Senator Phil Gramm and was later named the Executive Director of the National Republican Senatorial Committee.

He moved into the private sector and spent ten years in the business world, serving as an officer for a successful investment firm, a data management company and an electricity retail company. Congressman Hensarling has remained actively involved in his community dating back to his early years as an Eagle Scout. He has been a leader with the American Cancer Society of Dallas and a board member for the Children's Education Fund. Jeb and his wife Melissa are members of St. Michael and All Angels Church and reside in Dallas with their two children, Claire and Travis.

The 5th District

The Fifth District takes in Dallas neighborhoods such as Lake Highlands, Lakewood, and White Rock Lake. Much of East Dallas and a significant portion of Garland are located within the Fifth District, as well as all of Mesquite, Seagoville and Sunnyvale.

The Fifth District is home to an expanse of six rural counties that sweep through East Texas. These counties include: Kaufman, Henderson, Anderson, Van Zandt, Wood and Cherokee counties.

The Dallas County portion of the Fifth District is also home to the beautiful White Rock Lake, some of the finest schools in Texas, and thousands of special events like the annual Mesquite Championship Rodeo.

These rural areas and small towns are home to events like the Canton First Monday Trade Days, hundreds of cow-calf operations, thousands of small businesses and some of the richest history that Texas has to offer.

Navigating Washington, D.C

Overview

Washington, DC is divided into four quadrants - NW, NE, SW, SE. When traveling through the city, note which quadrant your destination is in because the lack of this crucial detail could result in a great deal of confusion. Because streets cross over into multiple quadrants, an address can be duplicated in each.

The Metro and Bus Systems

Washington has an underground transportation system, the Metro, which can transport you to almost all the major attractions, Washington Reagan National Airport, and additional locations for a reasonable fare. Trains arrive in each Metro station frequently during rush hours (6-9:30 a.m., 3-6:30 p.m.) and less frequently, approximately every 10 minutes, the rest of the day. The bus system is another inexpensive and dependable form of transportation. For information on Metro schedules, routes, or fares, please refer to their website.

Taxis

Washington, D.C. taxi companies use a zone system rather than a meter (which you will find in Virginia and Maryland taxis). The rates are the same for all taxis D.C. and the fare increases with each zone entered. Finding a taxi is fairly easy at major intersections or hotels, but should you need to arrange for one the companies below can be of assistance. The website below has additional information should you need it.

Public Tours Without Congressional Reservations

There are very interesting sites around D.C. that, unfortunately, do not provide Congressional tours. These sites are open to the public though, and here is some information that will help you schedule them into your visit.

Monuments

Washington Monument

This monument is among the world's tallest masonry structures, standing at 555 feet. Construction began in 1848 and was completed in 1884. It was dedicated to the memory of the first U.S. President in 1885.

Daily Hours: 9 a.m. – 4:45 p.m.
